

Wine Critic Reviews

2018 Santa Ynez Valley Sauvignon Blanc

Planet Grape Wine Review | By Liz Thatch, May 25, 2019

92 points

“Lovely and seductive with floral and grassy notes and kiwi, pineapple and melon on the palate followed by a long cleansing finish.”

Vinous | By Antonio Galloni, September 24, 2019

90 points

“The 2018 Sauvignon Blanc is a very pretty wine that offers a striking balance of varietal character, with an extra kick of body that is super-appealing. A blend of sites in Ballard Canyon, Los Olivos and Happy Canyon, along with some musque clone, yields a distinctive and delicious Sauvignon Blanc with plenty of layers to its citrus, floral and sage flavors. Drinking window: 2019 – 2023.”

L.M. Archer | June 29, 2019

Robe: Pale straw robe.

Nose: Tropical fruit, pineapple and grass notes on the nose; hint of eau de chat.

Bouche: Tropical notes carry through on the bouche, with a slight mineral core. Light body, even acids, moderate finish.

Dallas Uncorked | June 2019

From California’s Santa Ynez Valley, Beckman Vineyards Sauvignon Blanc ($20) leaps from the glass with lively aromas of nectarine, peach, Asian pear, and grapefruit zest.